

Fight Not Over For Extension Of Trade Pact

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's requested one-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements law now has passed both House and Senate, but a fight still is likely before it reaches his desk.

The Senate, in passing the measure late Thursday, knocked out of the bill a House provision which would add a seventh member to the Tariff Commission so as to give the Republicans a four-to-three edge.

Seven Members Opposed

This provision was put in originally to persuade key Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee to let the measure go to the floor.

Several of these Republicans favor higher protective tariffs.

They are not expected to look kindly on the Senate's rejection of the plan to boost the commission size.

However, a Senate Republican leader said privately he expected the House would accept the Senate version.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, has said it would be impossible to get a provision for a seven-member Tariff Commission through the Senate in the face of any united Democratic opposition.

Tariffs Slashed

Both Southern and Northern Democrats have been strong for the reciprocal trade program since it was first put through in 1934.

The reciprocal trade law expired June 12 because of House delay in acting on extension, but this did not affect the 43 pacts negotiated under it. These agreements have resulted in extensive cuts in U. S. tariffs.

However, the administration is anxious to get the act on the books again to allay fears of other nations that the U. S. is turning to tighter trade policies.

The President asked a one-year extension pending a broad foreign trade study to be conducted by a 17-member commission set up by the bill. This group would have a 10-to-7 Republican majority membership.

St. Louis Traffic Snarl Settled

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Streetcars and buses ran again today after union officials ordered an end to a two-day "wildcat" strike of motormen and drivers.

Some transit vehicles began operations just before the rush hour Thursday night, but service was irregular as some operators failed to show for work.

Service during the morning rush hours today was reported normal by Public Service spokesmen, who said contract negotiations would be resumed this morning.

Arthur J. Carroll, president of Local 788, AFL Amalgamated Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees Union, reported the last core of resistance against returning to work had been broken. He added that all union members, as far as he knew, were back on the job.

Police rode owl cars and buses Thursday night and early today to prevent interference. Police said two streetcars and some buses were halted by groups of company employees seeking to get the working operators to turn in their vehicles. No actual violence was reported.

Kyes Denies Detroit Area Being Shunned On Defense Contracts

DETROIT (AP)—Deputy Defense Secretary Roger Kyes says that "if any word has been passed around the Pentagon to shun the Detroit area on future military contracts it will be quickly countered."

And Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) quoted Air Secretary Talbot as saying the Air Force "doesn't have in mind the cancelling of any other contracts in Michigan."

News Starts Story

The cause of it all was a story in Thursday's Detroit News that had gone out around the Pentagon (Defense Department headquarters) to shun the Detroit area on future defense contracts because of "labor union abuses."

The News story quoted unidentified Pentagon sources as saying that "an indifferent labor force" caused the cancellation by the Air Force of a multi-million dollar contract with Kaiser Motors recently for transport aircraft.

The cancellation threw 10,000 out of work at Kaiser's Willow Run plant leaving about 2,000 more engaged in completing planes in the final stages of production when the Air Force halted the contract.

Slander, Says Mazey

The report also stated that Air Force representatives, engaged in surveying conditions in Detroit area plants, told of experienced aircraft workers being bumped off their jobs by less experienced men who happened to have more seniority in the CIO-United Auto Workers Union.

Emil Mazey, secretary treasurer of the CIO United Automobile Workers, was among the first to criticize the report.

"Statements purportedly from Air Force officials that Detroit workers are lazy and indifferent are a slander on the men and women who earned Detroit the title, 'Arsenal of Democracy,' during World War II . . .," Mazey said in a statement.

Governor Protests

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams and the Republican-controlled Michigan Senate also took exception to the report.

Williams fired a telegram to Secretary of Defense Wilson asking a conference with him and representatives of Detroit labor and management "for a full discussion of the future of Detroit in the nation's defense program."

The Michigan Senate passed a resolution asking Congress to investigate Air Force cancellation of its contract with Kaiser Motors recently.

Aide To McCarthy Accused Of Making Attack On Clergy

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—J. B. Matthews (R-Wis), has been accused by three Democrats of launching a "shocking and unwarranted attack against the American clergy."

The outcry was stirred by an article Matthews wrote in the July issue of the American Mercury magazine alleging that "The largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

Defended By Senator

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), another member, said he had not heard of the article before, but commented: "It seems to justify the attention of the subcommittee to find out what its about."

There was no immediate comment from the other Republican members, Senators Potter of Michigan and Dirksen of Illinois.

Matthews has had a long career as a Red-hunter, first as staff director of the House Un-American Activities Committee when it was headed by Rep. Dies (D-Tex), and later as a consultant to various government agencies.

Controversy was stirred earlier this year when Chairman Velde (R-Ill) said the House Un-American Activities Committee might search for subversives in the church field. Velde later said he meant only that his committee might investigate individual clergymen.

Article Regretted

In his statement McCarthy said of Matthews: "I know that he is a loyal member of the Protestant faith and that he numbers among his host of friends the clergy of all faiths."

Matthews told reporters the article was written before he had any intention of joining the subcommittee staff, and was on news stands in New York City by June 15, a week before he started on the job.

He said he would not have written it—or another to be published by the same magazine in its August issue—if he had known he would get the job.

Despite a steadily increasing work load, Eveland said, the staff has been cut from 61 persons in 1940 to 47 now.

There is nothing illegal, Eveland insisted, in the department's practice of informally discussing applications for small loan licenses before the formal application and fee of $200 is accepted. The report seriously questioned this practice.

Eveland said, "It would be absurd for us to accept a formal application and the fee with the full knowledge that the applicant cannot qualify for a license."

No one who has insisted in making a formal application has ever been denied the right, Eveland said.

Blood Frees Drunks

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Five men bought their way out of jail Thursday with blood donations.

The five, all serving sentences for drunkenness, were freed by Mayor Cecil Thompson after each gave a pint of blood to the Red Cross.

Thompson has offered to free men jailed for minor offenses if they donate blood on donor days. These were his first takers.

Tragedies Claim Young Swimmers

By The Associated Press

Two of the season's most tragic drownings snuffed out the lives of a 14-year-old girl at Muskegon and a 10-year-old boy at Monroe Thursday.

Sherry Sue Oliney, of suburban Muskegon, was seized from the grasp of three girl companions and dragged to her death in Lake Michigan by a terrific undertow off Muskegon Heights.

Jack Kalb, 10, of Monroe, drowned in a quarry there before the eyes of his horror-stricken mother and a brother while on a swimming day.

Known As Red Hunter

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), another member, said he had not heard of the article before, but commented: "It seems to justify the attention of the subcommittee to find out what its about."

There was no immediate comment from the other Republican members, Senators Potter of Michigan and Dirksen of Illinois.

Hearing Scheduled On Fortified Milk

LANSING (AP)—The State Agriculture Commission will conduct a hearing here Monday on a proposal by the milk industry to allow the sale of fortified milk in Michigan.

Present Michigan laws allow the addition of vitamin D to whole milk and vitamins A and D to skimmed milk.

Representatives of the state's dairy industry, mainly from Detroit, are asking that they also be allowed to add vitamins A and D, niacin, iron and iodine to whole milk.

Some nutritionists and medical people have opposed this, mainly contending the milk would contain too much vitamin A and iodine.

Jefferson Was The Father Of U.S. Independence Day

July 4 is celebrated in America as Independence Day by longstanding custom. Few Americans remember that July 2 was the day on which the Continental Congress first adopted a resolution that "these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states."

The power of the ideas presented in the more formal Declaration of Independence adopted July 4 seems to have been what determined the date of the celebration. And those ideas came from Thomas Jefferson. He wrote the Declaration and Congress adopted it with little change.

In the national document Jefferson put large parts of a paper he wrote in 1774. This was "A Summary View of the Rights of America." It was written for the Virginia convention to consider the fate of the colony and advance inter-colonial union.

"Our immigration to this country gave England no more rights over us than the emigration of the Danes and Saxons gave the present authorities of their mother country over England," Jefferson said in the "Summary View."

Truce Talks Hinge On Rhee's Showdown Demand In Korea

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL (AP)—U. S.-South Korean truce talks were stalemated today as President Syngman Rhee clung stubbornly to his demand for a unified Korea and declared he will never abandon the struggle halfway.

In an impassioned Fourth of July plea recorded by CBS, Rhee called on the American people to back him, and promised that his people "will keep fighting and dying" in the battle against communism.

Rhee's plea came after an hour-and-a-half morning meeting with U. S. envoy Walter S. Robertson.

son—their seventh secret session.

A high source said Robertson rejected Rhee's demand for more war if a post-armistice political conference doesn't agree within 90 days to unify Korea.

Reds Also Balky

After the conference Robertson told newsmen:

"Our discussions are continuing. I expect to see President Rhee again."

No time has been set for the next session.

Even if Rhee and Robertson reach agreement, the U. N. must get the Communists to sign the truce.

The Reds apparently were ready until Rhee freed 27,000 anti-Red Korean War prisoners about three weeks ago.

Since then, they have balked stubbornly, demanding the almost impossible recapture of all the prisoners and positive assurance of U. N. control over South Korea.

Envoy Going Home

The U. N. answered the Red demands Monday and called for a quick signing of the present armistice, but there has been no official Red reply, nor any indication when they would. However, unofficially, North Korea has expressed displeasure with the U. N. answer.

In more than a week of U. S.-South Korean talks, Rhee has refused to temper his demand for a guaranteed unification of North and South Korea. The U. S. has offered to work for unification by peaceful means, but won't promise to go back to war if the political conference doesn't agree within 90 days.

Well-informed observers predicted Robertson will start his homeward flight to Washington within a few days—successful or not. The U. S. has indicated it will go ahead with an armistice despite any holdout by Rhee.

Advice From Nehru

In New Delhi, close political associates said Prime Minister Nehru may urge the U. S. to act "more decisively" unless Rhee comes into line by Monday.

But at the moment, an authoritative source stressed that Rhee is holding out for an American pledge that U. S. forces will bear arms again in Korea if the political conference fails to solve his nation's problems within 90 days.

President Eisenhower cannot furnish this pledge to Rhee in writing, the source noted. The U. S. Senate would have to ratify any such agreement.

Head For Home

With this, and a few other confirmations out of the way, the bulk of the lawmakers headed home again, leaving behind a token force to complete the sine die (final adjournment) at noon today of a session which began Jan. 14.

Lee Named To Escanaba Civil Service Board

Escanaba City Council last night elected Russell Lee of the Birds Eye Veneer Company to Civil Service Commission and adopted a policy that in future no incumbent on any city commission or board may be reappointed to succeed him.

Lee was named to succeed F. W. Schmitt, Escanaba businessman, who was commanded by the Council for his service to the community while a member of the Civil Service Commission. The members of the Commission serve without remuneration.

Three names were submitted to the Council for consideration; Schmitt, Lee and James G. Ward Jr., by the Civil Service nominating committee.

Councilman Jacob Bink nominated Schmitt and Councilman Guy Knutson nominated Lee.

One Term Limit

Mayor Robert E. LeMire said that in his opinion membership on the city commissions and boards should be rotated so that opportunity would be provided a larger number of citizens to contribute service to their community.

In secret ballot Lee was elected to the Civil Service Commission, receiving three votes. Schmitt received two votes. A resolution commending Schmitt for his services to the city was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Councilman Bink the Council adopted the motion establishing as policy that the present Council will not appoint any commission or board member to the Civil Service Commission, receiving three votes. Schmitt received two votes. A resolution commending Schmitt for his services to the city was unanimously adopted.

In other business the Council rejected bids from three insurance agencies for fleet insurance covering all of the city's vehicles and will readvertise. There were errors or oversights in two of the three proposals.

Extend Parking Meters

Bids to supply the city with coal for the steam plant this coming winter were received from Reiss Coal Company and Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company and referred to Joseph Paterick, steam and gas utility superintendent, for analysis and report at the next meeting.

Second reading and adoption of an amendment to the parking meter ordinance, extending meters to the north one-half block of N. 10th St., was given by the Council. The meters had been requested by residents of the one-half block.

The Council discussed a method of allowing temporary loading zones in the parking meter zone of the city by having applicants place a "no parking" hood over the meter while the space is being used for loading or unloading. Thomas Wilkinson, one of the persons requesting loading zones, said such an arrangement would be satisfactory to him.

Grant Driveway

By this method the meter and the space would be only temporarily out of use by the public.

Permission was granted the Nu-Way Cleaners to break the curb for a driveway, after the Council established that parking in the Four-Lane Damage:

Property Owners Report Highway No Improvement

The state highway department's new four-lane highway is no improvement to abutting property in the Ludington-23rd Street area, according to the property owners, who last night objected strenuously to being assessed for any part of the cost of the project.

City Council, which originally requested the state to make the improvement, heard the objections and set the date of August 6 for hearing on assessments.

The special assessment will be $1.50 per front foot to abutting property owners, according to a compromise discussed by the Council. This was a bargain rate, for elsewhere in the city the cost per foot to the property owner is $5, said the Council.

Question Of Law

But the owners of land along the new four-lane highway appeared not to want any part of the cost, bargain or otherwise, and hinted strongly of court action in defense of their position that they have been damaged, not improved.

The city contends that it is impossible to construct curbs, gutters, drainage structures, and widen the paving to four lanes without making some improvement.

The property owners in the area hold that it benefits the city and the state but not themselves.

A nine-page opinion from Michigan's attorney general, received by the city in response to its request, did not impress Atty. John H. Root, counsel retained by some of the property owners.

While the city has authority to extend street budget.

This was disputed by some of the property owners who said there was more water in the area now than ever before. Mayor LeMire replied there had been more water everywhere in Escanaba the past few days because of record rainfall.

The new four-lane widening extends 1500 feet south of the Ludington-23rd Street intersection, 1600 feet west and 850 feet north, all on US-2-41 near the C&NW underpass would create a "hazard."

The opening had been requested by residents of the area.

Accepted by the Council were petitions to: Install a street light at Lake Shore Drive and 25th Ave. S.; construct a sanitary sewer between 10th and 11th Avenues N., and for the blacktopping of 16th Ave. between Sheridan Road and Stephenson Avenue.

Pensions Taken By 9 Roadmen

The Employees Club and the Delta County Road Commission last night honored nine of its members who are retiring on pension after serving the county for a total of 196 years. They are the first to receive pensions under the Road Commission's new pension-insurance program.

Would Pay Part
The four-lane widening will cost a total of $123,000. The city's share of the project is $27,000 and it proposes to levy $1.50 per front foot from the abutting property owners for a total of $9,153 to help defray the city's share of the cost.

This $1.50 per front foot represents less than the cost of the outlay for constructing curbs and gutters and drainage, said City Engineer Loren Jenkins. It does not include any of the cost of paving.

Mayor Robert E. LeMire pointed out that the property owners of the area had submitted a petition for curbs and gutters and drainage a few years ago. He described the project as "definitely an improvement so far as drainage is concerned."

Affects Street Budget

This was disputed by some of the property owners who said there was more water in the area now than ever before. Mayor LeMire replied there had been more water everywhere in Escanaba the past few days because of record rainfall.

The new four-lane widening extends 1500 feet south of the Ludington-23rd Street intersection, 1600 feet west and 850 feet north, all on US-2-41 near the C&NW underpass would create a "hazard."

If the special levy was $1.50 per linear foot, he added, it would be necessary to only reduce the blacktop paving program by one block.

A request to withdraw one block from paving this summer had been received, and later in the meeting on request of the petitioners the surfacing of S. 13th St. between 13th and 14th Avenues was tabled.

Each of the retiring employees received a token gift from their fellow employees.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

To Preserve Our Independence, We Must Have Allies Abroad

THE independence we declared on this day in 1776 is our most prized possession. We have defended it against enemies many times and we may have to do it again one day.

In spite of all the lessons of the past, there are some among us who imagine we could somehow do this alone. They seem to conceive that isolation is an inescapable corollary of independence.

Isolation may have been a happy and perfectly natural state for America in its early decades. But the conditions favorable

Who's In Power?

THE wild rumors go on about whether Premier Malenkov is a real power in Russia, or whether Lavrenti Beria, the secret police czar, is calling the tune. In the meantime, nobody has the nerve to plaster Russians' walls with either man's picture.

Of Stalin it could at least be said that as he grew older he took on a deceptively benign look. But selling either Malenkov or Beria to the Russian people as a Great White Father will take some doing.

Malenkov, the permanently grounded blimp, is the cruel proof that all fat men are not jolly. Beria looks like what he is—a man who has come to collect the mortgage, in blood. Not even America's hucksters could bring out the benevolence in that pair.

The Doctor Says... Excessive Hairiness Can Be Controlled Safely and Easily

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Judging by the number of inquiries received by this column, women seem to worry nearly as much about excessive hairiness as they do about more serious things.

The first thing to point out is that excessive hairiness is hardly ever the result of disease, and why some of the ladies have more trouble in this direction than others is hard to say, though it often seems to be partly inherited, or at least a family trait.

What are the alternatives for a woman who has so much hair that it interferes with her peace of mind? She can, of course, make the best of it, do nothing and try to forget it. This may be best if the hairiness is not too conspicuous.

Then there are the temporary things such as shaving—but this tends to thicken the hair in time—bleaching or dyeing the hair to make it less conspicuous, removing it with a wax or some other substance which pulls it out by the roots, or rubbing the hairs off.

One manufacturer of a well-known device for rubbing the hairs off wrote me in distress when I did not indicate approval of this method on a previous occasion. It is not permanent, but I understand many women have found it helpful.

Then there are permanent methods of hair removal. Skin specialists and official medical organizations have issued warnings against the use of X-ray because of that state disappeared long ago.

Even if they had not vanished before, they would have by the close of World War II. The atom bomb, the guided missile, the long-range bomber and the rise of Russia as the greatest land power ever to straddle the Eurasian continent, all these helped to make isolationism an empty myth.

So it is that we have entered, through NATO and other arrangements, the firmest peacetime commitments to our allies ever recorded in our history. They are the realistic measure of the size and power of the enemy, and the nature of modern warfare.

Since we and our friends are all free and independent, we are of course free to disagree. We often irritate our allies, and they in turn annoy us. Sometimes the rifts seem serious, and then excitable men talk of going separate ways.

But we have to realize these disagreements are the mark of real freedom. We must find a formula for unity sturdy enough to absorb these inevitable shocks. For the only other kind is that which the Russians impose upon their satellites—the unity of dread conformity enforced at gun point.

We have to understand, too, that the price of disunity among the free peoples-nationalist "independence" is what some would call it—could be death to liberty everywhere. Each free land then would be compelled to garrison itself against the certain test with the enemy, and, separate, each might fall. Not even the greatest of all the free powers, the United States, could surely stand out against the marauder.

This is not an ugly dream, but the reality we would face if we turned away from our friends. That would not be independence. It would be more like solitary confinement.

Use Good Judgment On July 4 Weekend

THE Fourth of July weekend bears the unhappy promise of being one of the most ghastly in the nation's history in terms of dead and injured. If you are really going to enjoy the Fourth, you will have to take this fact clear.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Inside The Tax Fight—Reasons why the little group of embattled Republicans backtracked on the excess-profits fight were threefold: 1 Uncle Dan Reed, the thorn in Ike's side, had warned he would bottle up all other tax and social-security legislation inside his ways and means committee; 2—Some corporations were planning a court battle over the constitutionality of a tax bill which bypassed the ways and means committee; 3—The Democrats refused to give GOP leaders the votes . . . "we're not pulling our chestnuts out of the fire." Sam Rayburn told Republican leader Charley Halleck . . . the man who helped call off the steam-roller tax tactics was Ike's close friend, Sen. Frank Carlson, both Kansas boys . . . the administration called up all reinforcements to help in the tax battle. Even Assistant Secretary of State Thruston Morton, ex-congressman from Louisville, Ky., was summoned to the White House and ordered to buttonhole ex-colleagues . . . when he protested that his job was foreign relations, not taxes, he was bluntly told: "We're using everyone in this fight!" . . . the fight might have been won months ago if the White House had called in Chairman Reed at the very start instead of bypassing him as it did last January and consulting Senator Millikin of Colorado instead.

Inside The White House—For the first time, Ike is using federal patronage to keep balky senators in line. Maryland's Sen. John Marshall Butler was called to the White House and told that jobs he wanted filled in Maryland might depend on his vote to admit 240,000 refugees into the U. S. A. . . U. S. marshals, district attorneys and judges in their states are important to senators . . . the same tactic was used with Senator Watkins of Utah when he hesitated about introducing the 240,000 increased immigration act. He was promised the appointment of Tom Lyon, Bureau of Mines director . . . Vice President Nixon has turned out to be a newsmen's bonanza for what's going on inside the White House . . . one reason for the private White House dinner for Cardinal Spellman, Herbert Hoover and General MacArthur was the fear MacArthur might sound off in support of his old friend, Syngman Rhee. MacArthur was close to Rhee, used to butter him up more than U. S. officials have of late . . . Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire gets invited to dine at the White House almost as much as the man who may run against him, Assistant President Sherman Adams, ex-governor of New Hampshire . . . correction—contrary to a witness in the Key West naval base smokes embroil, Mayor C. B. Harvey states that he was not present at either of the two Navy smokers and I am glad to make this fact clear.

IKE'S SPECIAL ENVOY

It's an amazing paradox that the man who is Eisenhower's personal representative to President Syngman Rhee, Walter Robertson, happens to be the same man who was Gen. George Marshall's envoy to the Chinese Communists when Marshall was trying to patch up a Communist-Nationalist coalition in China.

The other two diplomats who then believed it was possible to form a coalition between the Communist and Chiang Kai-Shek have virtually been hounded out of government. John Carter Vincent, State Department adviser to Marshall, was so castigated by Senator McCarthy that John Foster Dulles eventually fired him—not for being disloyal but for being wrong on China.

And Marshall himself so incurred McCarthy's wrath that the Wisconsinite delivered a 600,000-word diatribe calling him a traitor, and then published his bitter denunciation in book form. What he said, of course, was delivered from the safety of the senate floor where he could not be sued for libel.

If you are vacationing on a lake or are going fishing or bathing this weekend, apply the rules of water safety. Don't stand in a boat. Don't go bathing in deep water and particularly in unguarded areas. Don't horseplay either while fishing, boating or bathing.

Meanwhile the third member of the Marshall-Vincent triumvirate, Walter Robertson, now Assistant Secretary of State, is in Korea. A Virginia broker, he went to China as economic counselor of the American embassy, was close to Ambassador Marshall, acted as his most trusted assistant in dickering with the Communists and the Nationalists. He was sent to Peiping as head of a truce team consisting of one Chinese Communist, one Chinese Nationalist and one American. Robertson was the American.

One year later in 1947, Robertson was picked by John Carter Vincent to go to Korea as a civilian administrator to put Korea in order. The State Department at that time planned to spend half a billion dollars to protect Korea from Red invasion and show the Russians we weren't going to abandon it.

But simultaneously President Truman launched his doctrine of aid to Greece and Turkey and overruled Vincent. He said he couldn't afford to bolster Korea at the same time we were sending money to Turkey and Greece.

This is also a paradox of fate. For, if the recommendation of Vincent, the man McCarthy accused of being pro-Communist, had been carried out, Korea might never have been invaded. Meanwhile the man whom Vincent proposed sending to Korea in 1947 under the Democrats, Walter Robertson, is in Korea for the Republicans trying to settle the war that might have been prevented.

You can have fun and still be careful.

A girl in an Illinois town won an oratorical contest. It's nice to know that girls can talk.

PRACTICALLY PAINLESS—To reply to the first of these questions, the person who uses an electric needle to remove superfluous hair is called an electrologist. I have been told though I have not tried it, that while this procedure used to be rather painful, the new methods now employed for destroying the bed of the hair make the process much faster than in the past and also practically painless.

Note—Robertson, a lifelong Democrat, came out for Eisenhower last fall and was rewarded with the post of Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Far Eastern affairs. His wife is an owner of the wealthy Universal Leaf Tobacco Company.

The first thing to point out is that excessive hairiness is hardly ever the result of disease, and why some of the ladies have more trouble in this direction than others is hard to say, though it often seems to be partly inherited, or at least a family trait.

What are the alternatives for a woman who has so much hair that it interferes with her peace of mind? She can, of course, make the best of it, do nothing and try to forget it. This may be best if the hairiness is not too conspicuous.

Then there are the temporary things such as shaving—but this tends to thicken the hair in time—bleaching or dyeing the hair to make it less conspicuous, removing it with a wax or some other substance which pulls it out by the roots, or rubbing the hairs off.

As far as cost is concerned, I cannot give the answer, but this should be obtained from a competent electrologist and will probably vary, depending on how much hair there is to be removed.

In all probability excessive hairiness is more of a cosmetic problem than a medical one. However, it often seems to affect seriously the mental attitude of those women who have too much hair in conspicuous places, and therefore the remedy verges on medical treatment.

He spoke on the history of the flag and the devotion and courage of the people it represents and closed with the story of the composition of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Start Trips Early And Drive Slowly, Advice For Holiday

(By The Associated Press)

Law enforcement agencies joined today in an urgent appeal for Michigan motorists to exercise extreme caution over the Fourth of July weekend.

The staggered holiday, giving many workers only Saturday and Sunday off while others will have either Friday or Monday as an extra day, is expected to cut down on the usual holiday traffic jams.

But State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs pleaded with motorists to start their holiday trips early and to drive slowly. Last year 37 persons died on Michigan highways over a four-day Fourth of July weekend.

Up To Drivers

"There aren't enough police to prevent all unsafe driving," Childs said, "and it's up to the drivers to police themselves."

In addition to an estimated two million passenger cars expected on state highways, the Ohio National Guard will be moving to its summer encampment at Camp Grayling Saturday and Sunday.

The Ohio Guard will travel northward over US-127 and US-27.

An augmented car ferry service schedule at the Straits of Mackinac will be in effect over the holiday weekend. Five boats a day were scheduled to carry traffic between upper and lower Michigan.

Fair Skies Predicted

The Automobile Club of Michigan estimated some 90 percent of the state's 2,300,000 drivers will hit the highways over the weekend.

Additional thousands will pour into Michigan from other states.

Public transportation officials reported they expected buses, trains and planes to be operating at capacity over the holiday.

The Weather Bureau, despite a severe storm warning issued Thursday, predicted generally fair skies and cooler temperatures over the holiday weekend. However, a few scattered thunderstorms may dampen picnickers and vacationers at several places in Lower Michigan.

Mrs. R. E. Zwerner of Detroit have left for Waukegan, Ill., after visiting a week with Mrs. John Richards of South Ford River.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Simons and granddaughter, Janice, are visiting with Mrs. Simons' brothers and sisters at Escanaba. The visitors reside in Haywood, Calif.

Mrs. Alexa Goulet and daughters, Dorothy and Blanche, and grandchildren, Susan, Cheryl and JoAnne, have returned to Racine, Wis., after visiting with friends and relatives over the weekend.

"He (East) says he is an independent," Williams commented, "and apparently you have to be a Republican to get confirmed."

Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), chairman of the Senate Business Committee, refused to say why his committee would not recommend East's confirmation. Other senators said it was a matter of "personalities."

Brevity succeeds Richard H. Fletcher, Jr., of Bay City. The other Republican holdover, Harold W. Glassen of Lansing, stays on the commission.

Seven Confirmed

The Senate confirmed seven other appointments and left seven names without action, permitting the latter to be reappointed until January, at least.

Those confirmed:

John P. McElroy of Detroit to the Board of Aeronautics; Sister Mary Xavier Kinney of Grand Rapids to the Nursing Board; George Liddle, Muskegon city manager, to the Water Resources Commission; and on the Civil Defense Advisory Council: Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, acting civil defense director; State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs, State Welfare Director W. J. Maxey and State Health Commissioner Albert E. Heustis.

Those left without action:

John M. Veale of East Detroit, Public Service Commission; George W. Bowles of Detroit, Labor Mediation Board; Anthony J. Wysocki of Detroit, examiners in mortuary science; F. Joseph Flaugher of Benton Harbor, Aerodynamics Board; Billie S. Farnum, Drayton Plains, State Fair Board; Burr E. Sherwood of Stambaugh, Economic Development Commission; Tom Downs, of Detroit, Employment Security Appeal Board.

Mrs. Alexa Goulet and daughters, Dorothy and Blanche, and grandchildren, Susan, Cheryl and JoAnne, have returned to Racine, Wis., after visiting with friends and relatives over the weekend.

"He (East) says he is an independent," Williams commented, "and apparently you have to be a Republican to get confirmed."

Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), chairman of the Senate Business Committee, refused to say why his committee would not recommend East's confirmation. Other senators said it was a matter of "personalities."

Brevity succeeds Richard H. Fletcher, Jr., of Bay City. The other Republican holdover, Harold W. Glassen of Lansing, stays on the commission.

Seven Confirmed

The Senate confirmed seven other appointments and left seven names without action, permitting the latter to be reappointed until January, at least.

Those confirmed:

John P. McElroy of Detroit to the Board of Aeronautics; Sister Mary Xavier Kinney of Grand Rapids to the Nursing Board; George Liddle, Muskegon city manager, to the Water Resources Commission; and on the Civil Defense Advisory Council: Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, acting civil defense director; State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs, State Welfare Director W. J. Maxey and State Health Commissioner Albert E. Heustis.

Those left without action:

John M. Veale of East Detroit, Public Service Commission; George W. Bowles of Detroit, Labor Mediation Board; Anthony J. Wysocki of Detroit, examiners in mortuary science; F. Joseph Flaugher of Benton Harbor, Aerodynamics Board; Billie S. Farnum, Drayton Plains, State Fair Board; Burr E. Sherwood of Stambaugh, Economic Development Commission; Tom Downs, of Detroit, Employment Security Appeal Board.

Miss Laurel Plourde, secretary at the county extension agents' office in the Postoffice building, returned Thursday night from several days in East Lansing where she attended a Michigan State College school for extension secretaries.

The Michigan State Employees Association has chapter organizations in eight other Upper Peninsula communities and is composed of members from every agency of state government.

The permits included two for construction of new houses by Dr. Thomas A. McInerney and Robert J. Crepeau, and one for the rebuilding of a burned house by Walford J. Bromer.

In June, 1952, 13 permits were issued, with a listed valuation total of $23,000. Only two houses were included in June permits last year.

The June permits this year also include one for construction of a warehouse by the Phoenix Lumber and Supply Company, near the E&LS railroad and N. 5th Ave.

Training of Servers by the Reverend Mr. Page; and Robert Matthews, formerly choir director at the Cathedral in Memphis, will conduct choir practice assisted by John Heidbrink at the organ. After supper there will follow evening prayer and then evening recreation.

Expanded Agriculture And Recreation Urged For Upper Peninsula

THE EBASCO REPORT

PART VI

RECREATION & AGRICULTURE

Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of seven articles summarizing the Engineering Study of the Economic Resources of the Michigan Upper Peninsula sponsored by the Michigan Economic Development Commission.

Recreation and agriculture are comparatively new industries in the Upper Peninsula but they hold much promise for the future.

This is the gist of the Ebasco report on these phases of its economic study of the 15 counties north of the Straits of Mackinac.

The first farmers were miners and woodsmen who raised food for home use only. Many farm operators today work their farms in between industrial employment. This is shown by the fact that more than 30 per cent of the farm operators in 1950 worked 100 or more days away from the farm. The trend toward fewer but larger farms in the area is healthy and augurs well for further development of agriculture.

More Dairy Farmers

Farm authorities in the Upper Peninsula believe that dairy farming is the type of farming that has the greatest commercial potential. It is greatest in the South Central Region in Menominee and Delta counties. Alger county in the East Central region has good potentials. Dairying is quite widespread throughout the area with the exception of Marquette and Chippewa counties.

In Chippewa and Luce counties in the Eastern region, the abundance of hay and grains has encouraged the raising of feeder cattle that are shipped out of the area for fattening.

The climate and soil in several sections of the Upper Peninsula are excellent for the growth of high grade potatoes. This is true in Houghton county in the Northwest section, Iron and Dickinson counties in the southwest region, Menominee and Delta counties in the South Central region. Further expansion of the crop is feasible in these counties as well as in Alger and Marquette.

Flax and wheat now being raised in Chippewa can be expanded to be a more important crop. And oats is an important cash crop that can be expanded in Houghton county.

Freezing Strawberries

The freezing of strawberries in Houghton county indicates the possibility of enlarging berry crops in Baraga and Marquette counties since the soils are favorable there. Raspberries and possible cultivated blueberries can be expanded in these counties to be more important cash crops.

Upper Peninsula soils are favorable to a greater expansion of such vegetables as green and wax beans, carrots, beets and cabbages. These vegetables are important cash crops, much of them canned locally in Dickinson, Menominee and Delta counties. The decision of the Coleman Canning Company to locate its Country Gardens cannery at Gladstone a few years ago is indicative of this trend.

The Ebasco report says that rutabaga production has possibilities on a commercial scale. What is needed now are several washing-waxing-grading plants to encourage large scale planting. The best locations for such plants would seem to be in Houghton and Baraga counties.

Present processing plants are believed to be capable of absorbing greater volumes of present crops.

Commercial Fishing

The Ebasco report devotes some attention to the area's commercial fishing industry. There were 931 commercial fishermen licensed in the U. P. in 1951, and the total catch for the year was 12,890,229 pounds. While there has been more quick freezing of catches in recent years, the Ebasco consultants believe there are opportunities for future processing of Upper Peninsula fish. The possibilities of packaging fillets, smoked and marinated items are worthy of further consideration.

The Upper Peninsula has perhaps a greater abundance of natural attractions for the development of a prosperous recreation industry than are found in any area of comparable size.

The Ebasco report notes that it is still an area unspoiled by commercial intrusions. Millions of acres are still in forest land with 12 state parks offering 18 public camping sites.

The attraction of the Upper Peninsula is year-round. Vacationists and tourists appreciate the natural beauty, enjoy the summer accommodations, fishing and hunting parties in the summer and fall have a wealth of fish and game available, and winter sports offer outstanding recreational attractions.

Water Sports

Much progress has been made in the Upper Peninsula in the provisions of man-made facilities to complement the natural attractions. There are now 11 well-equipped ski centers in the area. Each year, ski jumping meets of international character are held in Ishpeming and Iron Mountain.

There are 23 excellent golf courses available for public use.

The Ebasco report recommends that more directed attention be given to specific locations favorable to various game or fish. In general the tourist literature is very attractively made up, but it lacks much of the specific detail that would help visitors select the location that offers the type of hunting or fishing that they desire.

Better housing facilities, snow trails, sports carnivals and other events are advised to promote the development of winter sports business in the area.

Surveys of long open stretches of road between principal communities, the Ebasco reports states, will reveal many opportunities for auto service stations, eating places and visitor entertainment. Such surveys should be made with the critical eyes of a visitor making his first trip through the area.

Transportation Schedules

Attention should be given to the impression received as the visitor travels or as he disembarks at the railroad station or airport. Is transportation to the resort, hotel or cabin readily available? If transportation schedules go awry, are the waiting rooms attractive, with comfortable facilities? Is the approach to natural beauties unattractive with abandoned ghost towns and little indication of the attraction miles ahead?

Methods should be worked out to register all visitors to the Upper Peninsula recording not only names and home addresses, but also company affiliations. Information centers strategically located on main traffic arteries could be designed and constructed in a style distinctive to the Upper Peninsula. They could be advertised by roadside billboards using a slogan such as: "Look for the Indian Head" or similar designation.

Displaying U. P. Products

Products made in the Upper Peninsula can be shown in displays in hotel lobbies, railroad stations, airports and information centers. These displays, changed periodically, will make the residents, as well as visitors, with the many diverse products of the area.

Modernization of store furniture, fronts and interiors generally is needed throughout the area. Such "face lifting" is outward evidence of the desire of the merchants to keep up-to-date. It also adds to the appeal of the community to visitors and new residents.

More thought should be given to carrying higher quality merchandise and to the provision of a wider selection of prices and styles. Such moves will offset the appeal of metropolitan shops and will help keep business at home.

Business opportunities outside the industrial, agricultural, fishing and recreation fields will be primarily by-products of new industrial and economic growth. New enterprises set up or brought into the area will provide more employment and in turn, will increase the number of customers and the general buying power. The trends in growth will determine the new needs for retail, wholesale and service expansion.

The present business facilities offered in the various communities of the area are important assets or possibly liabilities if basic services are not readily available.

In general, it can be said that the greatest needs of business services are in the marketing and promotion fields. Opportunities exist for sales agencies that can market the output of secondary wood-using concerns and agricultural crops, such as potatoes, berries and vegetables. A few isolated agencies are now doing a good job in some regions. More are needed.

Meadowlark Sings To His Own Image

DAVENPORT, Ia. (AP)—Narcissus the meadowlark now has a "shadow" in addition to his reflection, of which he seems enamored.

While Narcissus sits on a curb daily singing to his reflection in chrome automobile hub caps, another meadowlark can be seen nearby watching him.

Because the other bird is shy, bird enthusiasts cannot determine its sex. Prevailing opinion, however, is that it is Mrs. Narcissus.

When the strange behavior of Narcissus was first observed it was believed he thought his mate was hiding inside the automobile wheels.

Now the theory has been advanced that he is a vain bird stricken with admiration for his own image. Meanwhile, the missus patiently awaits the end to his foolishness and his return home.

Big Postwar Plane Bonanza Fizzled But Aviation Still Has Deep Roots

Ten privately owned airplanes are kept at the Escanaba airport for a variety of purposes, ranging from spreading the Word of God to fertilizing farm plants.

Four of the ten planes are owned by Fred Sensiba, manager of the airport, and are used for training purposes, rental and chartering.

Elder Alonso Mohr, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist church at Wilson, uses his two-place Cessna to commute with the many communities in his pastorate, extending from Escanaba to Wilson, Jam Dam and Boney Falls. Elder Mohr, who learned to fly at the Escanaba port, has been flying three years.

To California

An entirely different use of an airplane is made by Jon Thorin of 10300 S. 16th St. He uses his converted Piper Cub to spray grain, potatoes and beans, and also has used it to spray spring swamp water with diesel oil and DDT to eliminate mosquitoes in resort areas.

Gladstone's Ray Bero now is building a landing strip at Gladstone so that he can use his two-place Piper Cub to travel to farms where equipment has "broken down" in the field. The strip will be ready for use in about two weeks. Bero, who bought his plane last September, also uses it for business flights to Madison, Wis., and other cities.

Fred Schmitt of Escanaba has owned a plane since 1938, starting out with a Taylorcraft. He later had a Cessna and now operates a four-place Stinson. Using his plane for both business and pleasure, the Escanaba auto dealer has traveled as far as California and New York, and often is accompanied by members of his family.

Rescue Work

Frank Hicks of Gladstone, who owns the Aerona at the Escanaba hangar, missed his chance to fly for Uncle Sam in the last war, but took flying lessons under the GI Bill when he got back. His No. 1 hobby now is flying, and he takes his plane up frequently for jaunts over Delta County and to various U.S. cities, including Manistique and Sault Ste. Marie.

Still another plane at the airport here is the four-place Cessna owned by L. E. Anderson of Houston, Texas, welder for man in construction of the Lakehead crude oil pipeline in the Cooks area. Anderson made the trip to Upper Michigan from Texas in his Cessna.

Sensiba, who has trained a number of pilots here, owns two Piper Cubs, a two-place Cessna and a Piper super cruiser. In addition to his work in teaching pilots, Sensiba often uses his planes for rescue work over Little Bay de Noc and other sections of the county. Recently he cooperated with the Conservation Department in the search for the Don Miller plane which plunged into the bay.

Is Expensive

After the war, airplane manufacturers thought the airplane would "catch on" as the auto did, and that "everyone would own a plane," Sensiba noted recently. That didn't happen, however, the airport manager points out. But a different type of airplane use has developed, that of the corporation executive.

Earlier, the airport register here showed mostly student pilots logging in, Sensiba says. But now about 90 per cent of the planes checking in at the airport here, where a repair and service station is available, are the executive type plane. Over 50 have checked in here already this month, as compared with an average of 100 students per month shortly after the war, Sensiba states.

"Airplaning is still an expensive proposition," Sensiba points out, noting that a 125 horsepower tandem plane, like the Super Cub, costs about $4200. In 1947, a 65 hp Cub cost about $2250. The more "beach" type plane, such as the Beach Bonanza, runs about $21,000, exclusive of radio hookups and other added features.

Corporation Planes

Manufacturers have been turning out airplanes to meet the demands of corporations for executive type craft, rather than concentrating on cheaper models, for which the market did not materialize, the airport manager explains.

Sensiba is a CAA designated aircraft maintenance inspector and each year checks planes operating from the Escanaba airport for airworthiness, and licenses those found fit.

Twelve years ago, there were

only three active private planes at the Escanaba airport, Sensiba recalls. The executive type plane was not in use then. Now, in addition to the private planes stored by Delta residents, various private planes, such as those used by executives of the Kimberly-Clark company and Mead corporation, also "put in" frequently.

U. P. Has Six Airports

The Escanaba airport is the only CAA approved port in Delta County. It has a paved north-south runway 3800 feet wide and also an east-west sod strip, which borders the Jack Whitney property on the Gladstone bluff, is not used. Whitney, a mink rancher, uses an amphibious type Republic aircraft.

Upper Michigan has six active airports now, but right after the war there were 17. Those now in operation and located at St. Ignace, Escanaba, Menominee, Iron Mountain, Marquette and Ironwood.

These not only provide service for privately-owned planes, but also are stops for commercial airliners which now cover Upper Michigan.

Later this year, air-minded persons of the U. P. are scheduled to meet to plan observance of the 50th anniversary of air flight. The first airplane was flown by Orville and Wilbur Wright at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903.

U. Of M. Scientist Searches Traces Of Ancient Man

ANN ARBOR—Announcement that University of Michigan anthropologist is continuing research on the Sandia man, regarded as the oldest human inhabitant of the New World, makes one wonder how scientists can be so sure of what ancient man was like.

Well, it's not an easy job, according to Emerson F. Greenman, associate professor of anthropology, who's leading the expedition to Kilarney, Ont., where last year a similar U-M group uncovered clues which led to the belief that the Sandia man may have existed in that area.

Dr. Greenman points out that great care and patience are needed in piecing together fragments of pottery and rock to trace parts of man's ancient culture.

The anthropologist also must know the various parts of the skull which grow together as the individual ages. An addition of years also brings a widening of the angle of the lower jawbone, as well as a union of different bones of the body.

Dr. Greenman explains that sex can be determined, because male bones generally are larger than those of the female. The male skull usually is larger, has bony prominences over the eyes and shows smooth, rounded upper eye orbits.

The queer creature that emerged from his studio resembles nothing ever reported in the northern woods. It has the head of a duck, the body of a fish, and the spindly legs of a water bird.

Jahn, a widower, lives at Indian Lake. In his cottage he has fixed up a small studio where he is kept busy as he wants to be mounting both his own trophies and specimens brought to him by friends and acquaintances.

Manistique Taxidermist Learned Art In Correspondence Course

MANISTIQUE — Back in April, 1951, Henry DeSauteil brought the head of an 18-pound northern pike to Tony Jahn and asked him if he could mount it.

He wrote to the Northwestern School of Taxidermy at Omaha and contracted for a correspondence course which he finished in seven months. After getting his diploma he corresponded with the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, receiving a great deal of material and additional instructions on mounting fish.

Jahn, an enthusiastic fisherman and hunter most of his adult life, looked the head over and decided to see what he could do with it. Despite numerous trophies from the water and trail, he had never given a thought to taxidermy, and his first attempt, he admits, was rather crude.

He cured the big pike's head carefully with salt, then lacquered it thoroughly and mounted it. Jahn admits that this first attempt at mounting game was far removed from the expert work of a professional taxidermist, but both he and his client were pleased with the result.

Uses Natural Setting

Since learning taxidermy Jahn has not only mounted fish but various wildfowl, mink and muskrats.

QUESTION: Do you think the atom bomb may be responsible for the weather disasters which have been striking the nation?

Leonard Pilon, farmer and ore puncher, Schaffer: "I think it could have. Too many explosions, it usually rains. Take the Fourth of July, it usually rains. Take the army overseas, it usually rains on account of so much shooting and explosions. Why I say that is because I was in the army. I was in the infantry. That's how come I have noticed that. Course that wasn't the atomic bomb but it was still explosions."

Mrs. Stephen Reiffers, housewife, 604 N. 19th St.: "My opinion is I'm doing. I know I paid attention one particular Wednesday when they had one of those tests and it was the following weekend that it seemed to affect the rest of the nation. It wouldn't have affected so many different places in such a short space of time if the bomb didn't have something to do with the elements. It's a good thing they are investigating it."

Dr. Howard Johnson, 1103 Ludington St.: "No, I couldn't understand how atmospheric conditions could be affected over such a large area of territory. I would say just chance is responsible. We've had abnormal conditions for the past two previous years — an abundance of rainstorms. And a few atom bombs surely couldn't account for the bad weather of the past almost three-year period."

Sophie Perrow, cook, 401 S. 9th St.: "Yes. I know I've heard some discussions on it. I know we've had an awful lot of thunder and lightning, and I think it's the cause of it. A lot of electricity in the air."

Student's Pranks Cause Fountain Fun

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Officials of Oklahoma A. & M. College didn't count on student pranks when they constructed the ornamental marble fountain in front of the new $4,500,000 library.

First off, a catfish was found swimming in the cool, clear water. Then a few students tried to cool off. When campus cops were posted, the youths took it as a dare and began dropping in dyes. The fountain pool alternately glowed purple, red and green. To end it all, someone dropped in a batch of soap flakes and the next morning the pool was sudsy.

When pipeliners move to a new location, the Papps said, they frequently encounter people they have known before. For instance, when they came here, said Mrs. Papp, she didn't find at once any women she knew. But the first day or two on the job her husband met several men he knew, and found out where they were living, and soon they were in touch with old friends.

Mrs. Papp said the Papps seldom make friends with the regular residents of a place. "We don't bother with people because it's just too hard when we leave," she said, and explained that when they arrive in a new location, they never know how long they will remain. "We might be there two

GEORGE FROBERG, Rapid River Rte. 1, is shown examining a copper chisel he recently found in his garden. Froberg thinks the chisel is very old, perhaps dating back to the Vikings. He believes it was used to groove ship's planking during a process to make the planking watertight. A board was grooved all along its length, he said, and then another board fitted into the groove, producing a watertight plank. The copper was green, covered with nearly a quarter-inch of verdigris, when he found it, and he thought it was a piece of wood and almost threw it away. Froberg hopes to have an expert examine the chisel and tell him its history and age. (Daily Press Photo)

Life Of Oil Pipeline Worker Is Filled With Travel But It's Fun

"When asked what part of the country they are from, Mr. and Mrs. George Papp have a hard time answering. An oil pipeline worker and his wife, they have traveled the United States so much they hesitate to name any one part of it 'home.'

Although they live in a black and green trailer now parked in a trailer camp just east of Gladstone, the Papps are not "gypsies," Mrs. Papp said. "We don't want to be trailerites either," the New Jersey-born woman declared. "We're mobile-home people."

The Papps' mobile home is a comfortable "house" on wheels which contains, among other things, a full-size refrigerator and a television set. "Just about every trailer in here has a television set, but they haven't put 'em up," Papp said, naming poor reception as the villain in the case.

Full-Size Bathtub

"I can sleep six in here," said Mrs. Papp of the trailer's capacity. The bathroom contains a full-size bathtub, which together with other plumbing connects to a plumbing system at the trailer camp.

"It's like living in a ship — everything very compact," said Papp; and Mrs. Papp declared, "I wouldn't have anything else, as long as he's going to follow this work."

The Papps bought their trailer in Craig, Colo., after a bitter experience when they rented a two-room cabin for $105 a month. The cabin had no bat or utilities. "Not a thing in it," said Mrs. Papp.

"We just bought this place and you pipeliners are making good money," the owner told the Papps to their faces. "You're going to help pay for it."

The Papps bought a trailer and were out of the place in a week's time. They were so angry they wouldn't even park their trailer there, they said.

Living with the Papps until last week were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hays, and the Hays' 21-month-old daughter Patty. The Hays have just rented a trailer in a Rapid River trailer park. They wanted to find an apartment here but could not. Though they saw apartments advertised, Mrs. Hays said, their experience here has been that apartment owners will not rent to couples with children.

Meet Old Friends

The Papps have their own eight-year-old daughter with them, "Texas Belle" Papp, who was born in Texas so they call her "Tex," said Mrs. Papp. The Papps' son Gary, an airman last week left for Shepherd Air Force base who has been living in Midland, Texas, has just arrived here for a visit.

When pipeliners move to a new location, the Papps said, they frequently encounter people they have known before. For instance, when they came here, said Mrs. Papp, she didn't find at once any women she knew. But the first day or two on the job her husband met several men he knew, and found out where they were living, and soon they were in touch with old friends.

Mrs. Papp said the Papps seldom make friends with the regular residents of a place. "We don't bother with people because it's just too hard when we leave," she said, and explained that when they arrive in a new location, they never know how long they will remain. "We might be there two ers on tar kettles, or "dope pots" as they are called.

The family has been in every state but eight. But the Papps firmly expect that before they are finished, they will have been in every state, and will have played their part in the laying of many more miles of oil pipe.

Survey Shows Aged Dads In Australia

SYDNEY (AP)—Each year nearly 20 Australians over the age of 70 become fathers, according to a survey by the Acting Commonwealth Statistician in Canberra. The survey, based on birth, marriage and death certificates for 1950, shows that of the 18 men who were fathers at the age of 70 or more in 1950, one was 80 and another was the husband of a girl aged 20.

One youth became a father at 15, and 138 girls had become mothers at that age. Three of the girls were only 12 and nine were 13.

The percentages of births outside wedlock, (3.84) was the lowest for 10 years. One firstborn child in five was born within eight months of marriage. In 1950 one mother gave birth to her 18th child and four to the 17th child. Another had her 15th child in as many years of marriage.

Trip To Arabia Ahead For Mrs. Margaret May

Mrs. Margaret May, 1323 Ludington St., will leave Escanaba about September 10 for Abqaiq, Saudi Arabia, where she plans to spend at least two years.

Her husband, Alfred "Curly" May, a former assistant chief of police in Gladstone, works for the Arabian-American Oil Company in Abqaiq.

May is now in Arabia, but will fly home August 15. The Mays will make the trip back to Arabia together, traveling entirely by air. Their trip will last almost two months, and they will visit 12 countries before arriving in Saudi Arabia November 4.

Major stop on the May's itinerary will be the Scandinavian countries, Mrs. May said. Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Arne Andriksen of Wells, are both from Norway.

Tour Scandinavia

"My main object is to see my father's home and my mother's home and the churches that they were confirmed in," Mrs. May said. "That's been a dream I've had since

Recreation Sites Prove Popular

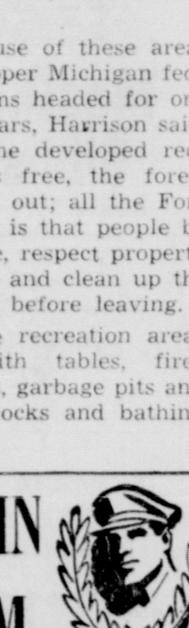

Three of the more popular recreational areas of Upper Peninsula National Forests are Camp Seven near Chicago Lake, Colwell Lake on M-94 north of Manistique, and the Widewaters on forest highway 13 on the Indian River, it is reported by C. L. Harrison, forest supervisor at Escanaba.

Two other popular spots in the Hiawatha National Forest are Flowing Well campground on highway 13, north of Nahma Junction, and Bay Furnace on the Lake Superior shore, west of Munising.

Recreational use of these areas and others in upper Michigan federal forests seems headed on one of its biggest years, Harrison said. Public use of the developed recreation spots is free, the forest supervisor pointed out; all the Forest Service asks is that people be careful with fire, respect property rights of others, and clean up the area thoroughly before leaving.

Forest Service recreation areas are equipped with tables, fireplaces, pit toilets, garbage pits and in some cases docks and bathing beaches.

Cleveland Indians To Hold Camp July 7-8-9

The second annual Cleveland Indians baseball school will be held in Escanaba July 7-8-9, it was announced today by Nap Ross, Cleveland scout who will be in charge of the program.

All young ball players in this area of the Upper Peninsula are invited to attend the three-day school which will be staged at the City Diamond.

An All-Star game will close the camp on Thursday, July 9, Ross advised. Outstanding players from the school will see action in the windup game.

The Cleveland scout and his assistants will instruct young players in the fundamentals of baseball and will look over prospects who showed well in the first school here last summer.

"A number of boys impressed us very much in Escanaba last year and we are eager to see them in action again," Ross stated. "All players interested are invited to attend the school and we hope to top the fine attendance figure of last year," he added.

Cleveland officials were extremely pleased with the baseball program in Escanaba when they put the first major league school here last year. Ross stated, the Escanaba baseball program was one of the best he had seen anywhere in the country.

Active in Escanaba baseball are Little League, Little Bigger League, recreation leagues and American Legion Junior baseball programs. Ross said he was sure that players capable of entering organized baseball would graduate from those ranks in the next few years.

Morning and afternoon sessions are planned at the City Diamond.

John LaBranche hurled four-hits and fanned eight for the winners. AFL collected 19 hits off the pitching of Bill Lindstrom and Joe Juetten.

Jack Carlson hit four for five with one homer and Jim McDonald homered for AFL. Juetten got two of the Paper Co. hits off LaBranche.

Champions' Nine-Game Streak Ended

Yanks Win, Indians Lose

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sportswriter

Now that the Yankees finally have quit losing maybe the Cleveland Indians will go back to playing better baseball.

Instead of concentrating on their own business, the Indians this week have been going through the paces with one eye on the scoreboard to see how much ground they were gaining on the fading New Yorkers. As a result they lost two in a row to the tail-end Detroit Tigers. They have a chance to make immediate amends since they go home tonight to face the usually docile Bengals in three more games.

The Yanks broke their nine game victory drought by edging the Red Sox, 5-3, in 10 innings at Boston Thursday. Cleveland bowed, 4-2, to Detroit and slipped six full games behind the world champions.

Cisox Keep Pace

The Chicago White Sox, who had Thursday and today off, also are six games back and just two percentage points behind the Indians.

In the National League the Brooklyn Dodgers made sure that they will be in first place on the morning of the Fourth of July traditional turning point of the pennant races. The Dodgers defeated Philadelphia, 8-0, and second place Milwaukee skidded a game and a half behind by losing to Cincinnati, 3-1. The rest of the National League clubs weren't scheduled.

Jimmy Mize hammered the hit that broke the Yankee slump. Pinch hitting in the 10th with two out and Yogi Berra on third base, Mize drove a 3-2 pitch from Sid Hudson left center field for a double.

First base was open at the time and Red Sox manager Lou Boudreau gambled on pitching to Mize rather than waiting for Gil McDougald, the next scheduled hitter. As it was, McDougald then drew an intentional pass and Bill

Martin brought in the insurance run with a single that scored Bill Renna, running for Mize.

Kell Gets Key Homer

Don Bollweg, Thursday's first baseman in Casey Stengel's ever-changing lineup, drove in three runs with a home run in the fifth inning and the New Yorkers thought they were going to win in regulation time. But George Kell opened the Boston ninth with a home run and forced the extra inning.

Al Rosen hit his third home run in three games to get Cleveland off in front at Detroit but the Tigers went ahead with a pair in the third on a walk, a wild pitch by Del Crandall.

Johnny Pesky and Walt Dropo, Don Lund produced the winning runs with a home run scoring Matt Batts ahead of him in the seventh.

Steve Gromek scattered seven hits in registering his third victory.

Washington's scheduled game in Philadelphia was rained out.

Erskine Is Sharp

So far this year Brooklyn's biggest difficulty has been its pitching but you couldn't find much wrong with Carl Erskine's seven hit performances against the Phillips. The shutout was only the fourth this season by a Brooklyn pitcher and it marked the first time in 18 games that the opposition hasn't hit a home run against the Dodgers.

Brooklyn collected only eight hits, but six of them went for extra bases.

Cincinnati has hit 94 home runs, more than any other major league team and the Redlegs used them to good advantage in handing Milwaukee its eighth straight home loss.

Ted Kluszewski put the Reds in front in the first inning with his 23rd home run, tying the Braves' Eddie Mathews for the league lead, and Gus Bell hit his 21st in the ninth. The Braves' only tally off the five hit pitching of Bud Podbielan was a circuit blast by Del Crandall.

PGA Firing To Get Under Way

Tigers Hand Cleveland Second Straight Loss

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — The main event in one of golf's finest shows—the match play in the annual PGA tournament—got underway with two nice little guys who haven't been doing too well lately at the opposite ends of the bracket.

One was bronzed Jimmy Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., the defending champion; the other Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., the qualifying medalist and now co-holder of the PGA qualifying record.

Turnesa hasn't won a tournament since last year's PGA and his "appearance money" as champion has amounted to almost as much as the $4,900 prize money he has taken.

Palmer, a pudgy, likeable guy who celebrated his 35th birthday today, hasn't won since his record victory in the 1952 Canadian Open. He has earned about $7,000 on the tournament circuit this year, including $250 for winning the qualifying medal Thursday.

In the hopes he might help him make good his pre-season boast that "this is no cellar club," Manager Fred Hutchinson nominated Lefty Billy Hoef (6-4) to oppose the Indians here tonight in the opener of a two-way, three-game series. Cleveland Manager Al Lopez counters with Early Wynn (7-5).

While there was a lot of bounce to the oounce in the Tigers, the Indians were glum. Detroit whipped them 4-2 in Briggs Stadium yesterday, while the first place Yankees were winning 5-3 in the tenth against Boston.

Gromek Gets Win

What is more Detroit accomplished the latest win with an ex-Cleveland, Steve Gromek, who beat Indian ace, Mike Garcia.

Gromek gave up only seven hits. One of them, however, was al Rosen's 19th homer of the season as his third in as many days against Tiger tossers.

Detroit got the upper hand yesterday in the third on pass to Shortstop Harvey Kuenn, singles by Johnny Pesky and Walt Dropo and a wild pitch. The combination was good for two runs.

The third and fourth runs came in the seventh as Don Lund homered with Matt Batts on base.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Women golfers who play for pay were given notice today that Babe Didrikson, greatest of them all, is coming back.

Mrs. Zaharias, who recently underwent a cancer operation, said "I'm going to lick this thing" and announced she will play in the Tam O'Shanter tournament to be held in Chicago later in the summer.

The greatest woman athlete of this century returned to her Tampa home over the weekend and revealed Thursday that she is playing golf daily to strengthen her legs for the big tournament.

She said she played five holes Tuesday, seven Wednesday and nine Thursday. She carded a 37—one over men's par—for the nine holes she played at the Tampa Golf and Country Club which she operates with her husband, George.

Toledo Takes Over Lead In Association

(By The Associated Press)

There's a new tenant—Toledo—in first place in the American Association baseball standings today.

The Sox took a slim half-game budget over runner-up Indianapolis last night by defeating Charleston 5-4. The Indians were bowing to the St. Louis Browns 5-2 in a non-league game.

In other league games, Kansas City edged Louisville 6-5, and Minneapolis trounced St. Paul 12-5.

Pinch Hitter Bob Montag's single drove in the winning run for Toledo in the eighth inning when the game was called to allow the teams to catch a train.

Jailbreak Nipped At Madison, Wis.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Jailer Don Barry credited himself with averting a jail break which he believes a Southern Michigan prison escapee intended to lead with a .32 calibre pistol.

The gun was found Wednesday on Roland St. Croix, 23, who had been stripped to the skin in a search following his arrest, with another Southern Michigan escapee, at Sauk City Sunday.

Jailer Barry immediately sent St. Croix to solitary confinement, and ordered a new search of Kenneth P. O'Riley, also 23, the other Michigan escapee.

The sheriff's department was positive St. Croix brought the gun in with him, but was unable to say how it was concealed.

Both St. Croix and O'Riley pleaded guilty in Superior Court here Monday to armed robbery charges and were bound over for trial.

The two admitted a series of holdups and burglaries in several midwest cities, after they walked away from a prison farm at Jackson June 5.

Their arrest came minutes after a Madison man was abducted, robbed, stripped of his clothing and dumped on a rural road near Sauk City. He quickly contacted police. Road blocks result in the arrests 21 minutes later.

Commander Tellefson Here

When the M. V. Detroit, enroute from Duluth to Mackinac Island, was in at Grand Marais Harbor for a short stay, among the four on board was Commander E. M. Tellefson USNR (Retired) who was a member of the U. S. Survey party which visited Grand Marais and other points in June of 1920 just 33 years ago on a survey mission in connection with the establishment of the chain of U. S. N. Radio Compass stations. These were operated for 10 years.

The first was Whitefish Point and a direction finder receiving station connected with Whitefish Point was established at Grand Marais. Commander Tellefson then came to Whitefish early in the fall of 1920 and installed that station and placed it in commission in December 1925 to serve the SS Favorite during salvage operations on SS Francis Widlar which had been driven on Pancake shoals during a blizzard. This latter mishap was the direct cause of later establishing of a U. S. C. G. Station on Whitefish Point.

Commander Tellefson now resides on Mackinac Island during the summer and was on board the Detroit making the passage in connection with the radio telephone which he has very recently installed on board. He is also similarly equipping several other vessels of Detroit owners. He is owner-manager of radio service on Mackinac Island and as contractor to the State of Michigan placed the first radio telephone installation on board state auto ferry and also the Conservation Dept., boat "Patrol" in 1940. He is a Navy veteran of both World War I and World War II. He and his shipmates had a pleasant visit as guests of the VFW at their clubhouse.
